

PERFECT STYLE, OPTIMISED FILTER SYSTEM

BLANCO COOK front cooking station upgrade – with more panelling options and significantly simplified handling for the user.

Attractive Design

Now, the exhaust ducts on the extraction bridge can also be configured in colour, with powder-coated panelling in a total of 13 colours. So it's not just the front and side panelling that can be brought to life in colour – the top of the front cooking station can be, too. The panelling is easy to attach and to remove for cleaning. It can be retrofitted at any time.

Improved Grease and Odour Filter System

Two slim charcoal filter pads replace the previous 16 heavy cartridges in the active charcoal filter system. Among others, this makes replacing the filter much easier, while reducing operating costs per hour and making the cooking station lighter.

The fan motor is still located on a pull-out support plate with a removable mains plug, making it easier to remove for cleaning. It has a new position at the end of the grease and odour filter system, providing an even better operating principle for the filter components.
